

ROBERT H. HENDERSON, AIA

Director of Planning and Design

Mr. Henderson is an architect, planner and construction executive whose 50 year career has been shaped by an exceptionally broad range of project experience in master planning, program development, building design and project management.

Over the last thirty years he has served as executive architect and design advisor to many Keating Partners projects, setting the stage for and guiding the planning/design process from “idea” to completion. He has developed innumerable conceptual plans for commercial, institutional, residential and mixed-use developments of all types, all directed at gauging the initial feasibility and viability of an idea. As a result of this process, Mr. Henderson has hired and formed dozens of relationships with architects, engineers and consultants throughout the country.

Mr. Henderson has been involved in most, if not all, of the development projects in the company portfolio. Many of these properties have won national historic preservation awards, including the IRS Regional Headquarters in Philadelphia, PA and local design awards including The Stegmaier in Wilkes-Barre, PA, The Phoenix in Philadelphia, PA and The Phoenix at Clarendon in Arlington, VA.

Mr. Henderson is a graduate of The University of Illinois where he earned a Bachelor of Architecture degree. He continued his studies at L’Ecole de Beaux Arts in Fontainebleu, France and earned Master of Architecture and Master of City Planning degrees from the University of Pennsylvania.
